

New version

Now there is a new version of the EasyInvoice printer with new updated functions. There are still several different types of printers, local, network and a LPD printer.

- The local printer should be used if its only used from one computer, it can only be installed on the one computer.
- The network printer should be used if it is several users that needs access to the printer. This printer can be shared and also be installed at several computers..

Which printer shall we use?

One user	Registered licenses	To be installed	Type of printer
Only one user	1	On one computer	Local printer
More than one user	1	On one computer*	Network printer
More than one user	More than one	On several computers	Network printer

*The printer have to be installed on a computer that every user have access to, it also have to be shared.
